Cook Proposes 10% FBI-Oswald N-Plant Ownership

Star Staff Writer

City Councilman Steve Cook suggested Monday that Lincoln become a 10% owner in the proposed nuclear power plant instead of 13%.

Lincoln could reduce the amount of money it would have to sink into the Ft. Calhoun No. 2 power plant by accelerating energy conservation programs, Cook told fellow lawmakers.

The latest wrinkle in the continuing nuclear power plant controversy apparently is an attempt to persuade at least one council member to change his vote on the issue.

Last month four council members, a bare majority, rejected the Lincoln Electric System's plans to become 13% partowners in Ft. Calhoun No. 2 along with the Omaha Public Power District (OPPD) and the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD).

Reconsideration Won

Since that decision, LES officials and members of the utility's administrative board have been working overtime to convince the council to reconsider its action. Last week, the lawmakers agreed to Cook's proposal came during an informal discussion among the lawmakers Monday concerning next week's hearing on the nuclear power plant partnership.

Two of the four council members who vetoed LES's nuclear power plant ambitions said their main objection centers on the cost of the plant. Those two are Max Denney and Bob Jeambey.

In an attempt to win them over, Councilman Bob Sikyta proposed last week that the council set a ceiling on the amount of money Lincoln would spend on the plant. It has been estimated that it will cost Lincoln $129 million to buy 13% of the project.

Since Sikyta made his suggestion, OPPD and NPPD officials have indicated they won't accept that plan.

The utilities argue that since Ft. Calhoun's pricetag can't be figured out now, it is not realistic to set a fixed cost. Reduced Ownership

Cook now is proposing that Lincoln reduce its ownership in Ft. Calhoun. A

"The whole thing is too iffy," Jeambey said, contending that the council would be writing out a "blank check" under the proposed arrangement.

Jeambey argued that the tremendous investment required to help finance the nuclear plant's construction would end up costing ratepayers more money than LES's figures show.

Washington - A House subcommittee has opened an investigation into the FBI's relationship with Lee Harvey Oswald and Jack Ruby before President John F. Kennedy's assassination, the subcommittee's chairman said Monday.

This is the first official public inquiry by Congress into whether evidence was withheld from the Warren Commission since it reported in 1964 that Oswald was the sole assassin.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the civil and constitutional rights subcommittee, said the purpose of his panel's investigation "is not to reopen the Warren Commission, others may later decide to do that, but to get the record straight on just what went on."

Edwards said several recent disclosures about the FBI's role before the assassination Nov. 22, 1963, had convinced members of the subcommittee that the matter required its scrutiny. Edward's subcommittee has oversight responsibilities for the FBI and has been conducting a long-term investigation into its operations.

He said the subcommittee had scheduled public hearings for next Monday and Tuesday and had asked senior FBI officials to testify under oath. It may later subpoena FBI field agents involved in various phases of the case, he added.

He said the subcommittee would concentrate on the following three main areas in its initial investigation:

-The disclosure that the FBI, presumably on orders from its then director, J. Edgar Hoover, destroyed a letter written by Oswald several days before the assassination in which he threatened to "blow up" a Dallas police station unless FBI agents stopped trying to interview

-Recently uncovered documents that indicated that Jack Ruby, the man who killed Oswald in the Dallas police headquarters, was a paid informant for

-The charge by William Walter, a former code clerk in the New Orleans FBI field office, that the FBI warned its southern field offices five days before Kennedy's death that there would be an assassination attempt with a rifle in Dallas.

The House subcommittee's investigation is only one of several reappraisals of Kennedy assassination evidence. The Senate Select Committee on Intelligence appointed two of its members, Sens. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., and Gary Hart, D-Colo., to be an informal subcommittee and screen possible new evidence.

The Senate committee has a broader mandate than does Edward's panel. It can gather evidence on the Central Intelligence Agency's activities as well as FBI materials. Based upon what Schweiker already learned as a member of the intelligence committee, he called last month for the Warren Commission's inquiry to be reopened.

Among the matters believed to warrant re-examination was the disclosure that the CIA had never told the Warren Commission it was involved in attempts to kill Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba. Considering Oswald's deep involvement with pro-Cuban elements, Schweiker has said it would appear this information might be pertinent to the Warren inquiry.

The events surrounding the destruction of the Oswald letter by the FBI are under investigation both within the FBI and by the Justice Department's Criminal Divi-

After the president was killed, the Oswald letter was removed from the file and destroyed. Several sources have said the destruction may have been on Hoover's orders, but this is still under investigation.

Despite the threat contained in the letter, both Hoover and James P. Hosty Jr., the special agent who was investigating Oswald at the time, told the Warren Commission they had no reason before the Kennedy shooting to believe Oswald was capable of violence.

Governor Drafts Call; Signing Is Undecided

By BOB GUENTHER Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon Monday penned a rough draft of a proclamation calling Nebraska's 49 state senators into special session to deal with the dwindling state treasury balance.

A decision on whether to sign the proclamation and call the special session will wait until Tuesday or Wednesday,

Should it materialize, the special session would be the state's 30th and the first since 1970.

Exon's talk of a special session was prompted by the declining general fund balance ($7.9 million as of last Wednesday, the lowest in a decade) which caused him to warn that the state might lack the cash needed to meet $65 million in payments due in the first three 🤊 months of 1976.

After discussing the fiscal situation said he found their suggestions for administratively reining in state expenditures without a special session "wan-

The crux of the fiscal problem, Exon said, is cutting expenditures to avoid a "dramatic" increase next year in the state income tax and, particularly, the state sales tax.

Exon has not revealed what charge he will give legislators if they are called into special session. The State Constitution limits the business considered during a special session strictly to what the governor calls for.

Various Options Options include asking for (singly or in combination): - A cut in appropriations for 1975-76.

- A retroactive increase in the 1975 income tax. An increase in the income tax for 1976 without a hike in the sales tax. - Authority to delay certain aid to counties, school district and others beyond their due dates.

- And authority to borrow from special state funds now being invested. Senators, however - if they wanted to go beyond Exon's call - could adjourn and reconvene themselves into their own special session. Unicameral Speaker Jules Burbach opposed reducing appropriations for the current year, saying, "We made appropriations with the proper intent for the things that were necessary." He noted that the Legislature sustained Exon's spending vetoes. Exon himself approved appropriations in excess of his own recommendations.

At Least 7 Days

A special session would have to last at least seven days to give the legislation time to pass through the procedural maze. Exon would like to have the session adjourned by Nov 15, the last day the State Board of Equalization can adjust tax rates for 1976.

A 1975 special legislative session would be the first one called since voters authorized the Legislature to meet annually instead of biennially.

In 1974, Unicameral Speaker Richard Proud called a special session to raise the ceiling on mortgage rates while Gov. J. James Exon and then Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh were out of town. It proved abortive, however, as Exon rescinded the special session as soon as he returned.

The 1970 special session was called to consider a laundry list of items, including interest rates on airport and housing authority bonds and funds for completion of the Game and Parks Commission com-

The first special session of the Legislature actually met before Nebraska became a state. It met Feb. 20-21, 1867 to add a Negro suffrage amendment to the 1866 State Constitution. Congress had refused to accept Nebraska into the Union until that provision was added.

The survey raises questions about "the sheer number of government units having some form of law enforcement responsibility" as well as raising the possibility of duplication of effort, according to Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., who requested the data.

He said, for example, that 23 departments and agencies have 35 separate guard forces, with four alone in the Treasury Department. Percy questioned why the Capitol, the Library of Congress and the Supreme court each requires a separate police force to protect a four-block area with 1,214 officers which the District of Columbia also patrols.

Almost all of the money - $2.4 billion to employ 158,682 people in 26 agencies — went for traditional police work involving sworn law officers with powers of arrest or for prison guards and security guards. The rest was spent on investigating job applicants and personnel or in-house investigations of employes, contrac-

The GAO said the Postal Service employed 2,900 guards, 1,933 postal inspectors and special investigators, 38 crime laboratory workers, and 284 persons to conduct personnel security clearances at a total cost of $102 Said Percy: "A thoroughgoing analysis of what these police, investigators and intelligence people do may demonstrate that they are all necessary. On the other hand, such a study could lead the way to some consolidation of police and intelligence operations that might prove a cost savings and provide the Congress with a greater control over all security activities of the federal government."

Firemen Hospitalized By Colonial Inn Blaze

Two Lincoln firemen were hospitalized after inhaling smoke while fighting a Monday afternoon fire at the Colonial Friendship Inn, 56th and Cornhusker.

Listed in good condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital Monday night were Robert Case and Gary Kuehn.

Fire officials report that the fire probably started in a trash can in the bathroom of a basement apartment occupied by Neigh Do. Do said that he had emptied an ashtray into the can shortly before the fire started, officials said. The fire spread through the basement apartment to the area between the ceiling of that apartment and the floor of the unit above. Firefighters had to chop a hole in the floor of the first floor apartment to put out the blaze.

Smoke also damaged the above apartment.

Tike Uses CB To Aid Dad

Guide Rock (UPI) - A sheriff's posse rescued Randy Hunter Monday morning after authorities heard his three-yearold daughter Deon plea for help on a citizens band radio.

Hunter was working with a grain-cutting machine known as a swather when he was pinned under it and could not free himself. He instructed his daughter to go to a nearby pickup truck and use the CB radio mike to call for help. Those who heard the call reportedly had difficulty pinpointing the location. But the posse eventually found Hunter who was taken by ambulance to the Webster County hospital in Red Cloud where he was treated for minor injuries.

EXTON, Pa. (AP) — Susan Scholl is running a daringly different campaign for a court job by walking the streets in short shorts and halter. And she puts up posters that show her skimpily clad.

The 23-year-old Chester County Democrat complains the posters come down almost as fast as she gets them nailed on poles or pasted on walks.

"I'm told they're collector items," she says, "but it still makes me mad. I put a half-gallon of glue on some and they still take them.'

The idea of a pin-up poster came from her husband, Jacob, a builder and unsuccessful candidate for Congress a year ago.

"He felt that I'd have a chance of winning if I had enough exposure," smiles Susie, admitting she has an uphill battle in this suburban Philadelphia county, which has a 3-2 Republican

It was because of the GOP dominance over half a century that prompted her to toss in the fancy sombrero she wears in her poster picture.

"I think that the party in power for a long time without competition tends to become complacent," she says. "They don't do their best."

A fourth, unexploded bomb was spotted outside the BIA Law and Order office. It went off minutes after the area was cleared, breaking windows.

Residents of the reservation town said the bombs went off about 10 minutes apart beginning at 6 a.m.

Restoring The Capitol.

A study conducted by the University of Nebraska College of Architecture, which will be published next month, will document damage done to Nebraska's priceless capitol building for the sake of office space and efficiency. It will also suggest that much of the damage can be repaired.

The study will ask the governor or the Legislature to establish a preservation program centering on restoration of the building to its original form wherever possible.

A list of the physical changes in the building over the years includes: makeshift offices, lowered ceilings, plywood partitions, formica information booths, cheap fluorescent lighting, painted trash barrels, broken statuary, homestyle draperies, gaudy carpeting, boarded-up grand hallways, a Rotunda cluttered with phone booths, low-hung lighting concealing vaulted ceilings and closed balconies.

The office function has been given precedence over the preservation function, the study says, but the damage can and "must" be undone.

Attention to a restoration program should be given a top priority by state officials. "The building is Nebraska," as Stan Matzke Jr., state director of administrative services, says. It is one of the grandest public edifices in the world.

The growth of government and the lack of expanded office space has contributed to the slow, year-by-year assault on the building's integrity. But a new state office building will soon open and that will take pressure off the capitol building and should allow for the restoration of at least some of the remodeled and damaged areas.

Hopefully a restoration program will include the promenade, the second-level walkway around the exterior of the building which has been closed to the public for a number of years. The promenade has undergone waterproofing work and a decision on opening it up to pedestrian traffic all the way around the building is pending. There might be added security expenses involved, but they would be worth it. Much can be learned about the building by walking around the promenade.

Restoration of the capitol building is basically a money decision. It is hoped that state officials will not be shortsighted when it comes to considering it. Over the long run, Nebraskans cannot afford to let the condition of their magnificent capitol deteriorate. It would be a crime to let that

Politicians Behind Events

Commenting upon the current activities of the two major national parties as we approach a presidential election year, James Reston has said: "... They go on again as before, isolated with the same old arguments and political tricks, knowing the world is different, but not quite knowing what to do about it."

Reston's criticism is hard to challenge when you consider that President Ford is leaning on the old crutch of reduced federal spending while the Democrats contique to cling to tired, old programs. What Reston is saying is that there is no leadership in the two national parties at this time and no new approaches to our problems being talked about.

Within the institutions, professions and industries of the nation is a vast reservoir of talent that could be applied to the challenges we face but it fails to surface in our political system. Rather, the unique and thoughtful approaches to the times are found tucked away in scholarly journals and elsewhere from which they never see. the light of public discussion.

The problem Reston talks about is that the GOP is seeing the future is terms of a lower federal profile while the Democrats see that same future in terms of continuing traditional government programs. The problem is that both parties are probably

At a time when the old world order of things is being severely shaken up, when our own free enterprise system is being severely strained by the demands upon it and when the nation's and the world's life support system is being strongly challenged, it seems ridiculous to argue for either a declining role by the federal government in our affairs or a role that is unchanged from the past. With that sort of approach, we may survive another election and maybe another term or two for the winning presidential candidate but it will be survival amid turmoil.

The plain old welfare approach to things, for instance, is not really working but the problems it seeks to solve are there and growing. The hand of government in the free enterprise system may be as big a hinderance as a help but the pitfalls and shortcomings of that system remain to be

For some years now, both political arties have shunned the intelligentsia beyond their ranks. If they continue to do this, governmental leadership will be sadly lacking in the coming decade and the nation will be worse off as a result of it.

A Cozy Relationship

we examine the relationship and the Chilean dictatorship, the more curious it becomes.

The military regime in Chile holds the dubious distinction of military training in such subjects being one of the most repressive as map reading, first aid and in the world. Thousands of Chileans have been arrested. beaten and tortured for their political beliefs. Hundreds more have simply disappeared without a trace.

Yet U.S. support for the dictatorship has never waned. Indeed, it's getting stronger.

The year after Chilean strongman Augusto Pinochet took over, for example, U.S. economic assistance to Chile doubled from $9.8 million to $20.5 million. According to current plans, Chile will get $77 million in 1976.

Of this, $55 million in "Food for Peace" funds alone will be earmarked for Santiago. Chile, iff short, will get an 85 per cent shice of the food aid that will be pumped into all of Latin-America.

On December 30, 1974, Congress cut off all military assistance to Chile. Until Congress intervened, however, military aid to Santiago was steadily climbing. It stood at $16 million in fiscal 1974.

These are merely the obvious ways Washington has helped keep the junta afloat. Occasionally we also get a glimpse of the covert assistance given to

But the most intensive instruction was given in 125 hours in "counterinsurgency operations; anti-guerrilla warfare in the field."

Until Congress put an end to military assistance to Chile nine months ago, in short, the U.S. government was teaching the junta's foot soldiers how to repel the "dissidents" who oppose

PARIS — Whatever happened to the low-priced automobile? It moved behind what used to be known as the Iron Curtain.

Believe it or not, the cheapest car on display here at the 1975 Paris Auto Show (not counting glorified tricycles with truck bodies) is the Skoda S100, a four-door, six-horsepower Czech sedan with the engine in the rear, priced at about $2,563. By comparison, the French Deux Chevaux, by Citroen, with its familiar tin-can body, is priced this year at $2,963 for the Berline Special.

Nor is the Skoda the only peoples transportation from the East on display here. The Yugoslavs are showing off their Zastava fourdoor sedan (about $3,900), the Soviets their Lada 1500 ($4,375), and the Poles a Berline 1300PX for $3,845 (with a station wagon priced at $4,150). On close inspection, however, it becomes apparent that all these are really just Italian Fiats put together by Communist labor.

Still, these East-bloc prices do raise some questions about free enterprise, since a plain old Ford Capri is listed here (without accessories) at about $6,131, and one of the smallest and most economical American entries. the Chevette Vauxhall, a two-door fourseater with a station-wagoh door in the rear, is priced at $4,749, stripped.

On the other hand, the West wins hands down when it comes to the most outlandishly luxurious cars, with prices to match. How goes a Rolls-Royce Corniche convertible for $84,666 grab you? Who on earth is such a car being made for, and why? Even the Shah of Iran doesn't need it. But if it does seem a little much, you can have a Rolls Silver Shadow limousine.

with an instrument panel that looks like the cockpit of a Boeing 747, for a mere $71,666.

A Special Kind Of Solution

the greatest modern Greek poet, wrote: "And now, what will become of us without barbarians? They were a kind of solution." Such is the case with Greece today.

From 1967 to 1974 this country experimented with one variety of that solution but now the seven year itch of colonels has been done away with. The new democracy of Premier Constantine Caramanlis must nevertheless proceed cautiously to avoid recurrence of the malady of military coups.

Even prior to the officers putsch led by Col. Papadopoules, coups were a familiar phenomenon here. There had been eight major upheavals since World War I, all led by colonels or generals. In recent years the army was riddled with secret societies including the rightwing CHI and PERICLES, the conservative IDEA and the leftwing ASPIDA.

DEATH VALLEY DAYS

Restoring The Capitol

A study conducted by the University of Nebraska College of Architecture, which will be published next month, will document damage done to Nebraska's priceless capitol building for the sake of office space and efficiency. It will also suggest that much of the damage can be repaired.

The study will ask the governor or the Legislature to establish a preservation program centering on restoration of the building to its original form wherever possible.

A list of the physical changes in the building over the years includes: makeshift offices, lowered ceilings, plywood partitions, formica information booths, cheap fluorescent lighting, painted trash barrels. broken statuary, homestyle draperies, gaudy carpeting, boarded-up grand hallways, a Rotunda cluttered with phone booths, low-hung lighting concealing vaulted ceilings and closed balconies.

The office function has been given precedence over the preservation function, the study says, but the damage can and "must" be undone.

Attention to a restoration program should be given a top priority by state officials. "The building is Nebraska," as Stan Matzke Jr., state director of administrative services, says. It is one of the grandest public edifices in the world.

The growth of government and the lack of expanded office space has contributed to the slow, year-by-year assault on the building's integrity. But a new state office building will soon open and that will take pressure off the capitol building and should allow for the restoration of at least some of the remodeled and damaged areas.

Hopefully a restoration program will include the promenade, the second-level walkway around the exterior of the building which has been closed to the public for a number of years. The promenade has undergone waterproofing work and a decision on opening it up to pedestrian traffic all the way around the building is pending. There might be added security expenses involved, but they would be worth it. Much can be learned about the building by walking around the promenade.

Restoration of the capitol building is basically a money decision. It is hoped that state officials will not be shortsighted when it comes to considering it. Over the long run, Nebraskans cannot afford to let the condition of their magnificent capitol deteriorate. It would be a crime to let that

Commenting upon the current activities of the two major national parties as we approach a presidential election year, James Reston has said: "... They go on again as before, isolated with the same old arguments and political tricks, knowing the world is different, but not quite knowing what to do about it.'

Reston's criticism is hard to challenge when you consider that President Ford is leaning on the old crutch of reduced federal spending while the Democrats continue to cling to tired, old programs. What Reston is saying is that there is no leadership in the two national parties at this time and no new approaches to our problems being talked about.

Within the institutions, professions and industries of the nation is a vast reservoir of talent that could be applied to the challenges we face but it fails to surface in our political system. Rather, the unique and thoughtful approaches to the times are found tucked away in scholarly journals and elsewhere from which they never see. the light of public discussion.

The problem Reston talks about is that the GOP is seeing the future is terms of a lower federal profile while the Democrats see that same future in terms of continuing traditional government programs. The problem is that both parties are probably

At a time when the old world order of things is being severely shaken up, when our own free enterprise system is being severely strained by the demands upon it and when the nation's and the world's life support system is being strongly challenged, it seems ridiculous to argue for either a declining role by the federal government in our affairs or a role that is unchanged from the past. With that sort of approach, we may survive another election and maybe another term or two for the winning presidential candidate but it will be survival amid turmoil.

The plain old welfare approach to things, for instance, is not really working but the problems it seeks to solve are there and growing. The hand of government in the free enterprise system may be as big a hinderance as a help but the pitfalls and shortcomings of that system remain to be dealt with.

For some years now, both political parties have shunned the intelligentsia beyond their ranks. If they continue to do this, governmental leadership will be sadly lacking in the coming decade and the nation will be worse off as a result of it.

A Cozy Relationship

WASHINGTON — The closer we examine the relationship between the U.S. government tation," was attended by 993 and the Chilean dictatorship, the more curious it becomes.

The military regime in Chile holds the dubious distinction of being one of the most repressive in the world. Thousands of Chileans have been arrested, beaten and tortured for their political beliefs. Hundreds more have simply disappeared without

Yet U.S. support for the dictatorship has never waned. Indeed, it's getting stronger.

The year after Chilean strongman Augusto Pinochet took over, for example, U.S. economic assistance to Chile doubled from $9.8 million to $20.5 million. According to current plans, Chile will get $77 million in 1976.

Of this, $55 million in "Food for Peace" funds alone will be earmarked for Santiago. Chile, in short, will get an 85 per cent slice of the food aid that will be pumped into all of Latin America.

On December 30, 1974, Congress cut off all military assistance to Chile. Until Congress intervened, however, military aid to Santiago was steadily climbing. It stood at $16 million in fiscal 1974.

These are merely the obvious ways Washington has helped keep the junta afloat. Occasionally we also get a glimpse of the covert assistance given to Chile.

Take, for example, the Army's "School of the Americas," located in the Panama Canal Zone. The school, stuck back in the jungle near the Caribbean Coast, has been around in one form or another for three decades. It is specifically designed to train Latin American soldiers; all classes are taught in Spanish.

To no one's great surprise, we discovered that about a third of the school's students in 1975 came from Chile - 575 out of a total enrollment of 1,765.

"Officer Combat Arms Orienstudents. Over half of them -

They were given standard military training in such subjects as map reading, first aid and signal communications. The emphasis, however, was on antiguerrilla warfare.

A full 16 hours of instruction, for example, were devoted to "basic concepts of counterinsurgency in urban areas." Another nine hours of "psychological operations" were. taught. But the most intensive instruction was given in 125 hours in "counterinsurgency operations; anti-guerrilla warfare in the field."

Until Congress put an end to military assistance to Chile nine months ago, in short, the U.S. government was teaching the junta's foot soldiers how to repel the "dissidents" who oppose

Prisons seldom make news until they erupt in riots. Americans tend to forget the approximately 212,000 convicts scattered through our state and federal prisons. But all is not quiet behind bars.

Clinton inmates are suing prison officials, alleging that the > Guards hose down inmates locked in Unit number 14 cells with cold water which destroys their property, leaves them drenched and their clothing and bedding soggy.

> Inmates have been beaten, harassed and subjected to degrading reulation such as repetitive rectal searches beyond the needs of prison security.

PARIS - Whatever happened to the lowpriced automobile? It moved behind what used to be known as the Iron Curtain.

Believe it or not, the cheapest car on display here at the 1975 Paris Auto Show (not counting glorified tricycles with truck bodies) is the Skoda S100, a four-door, six-horsepower Czech sedan with the engine in the rear, priced at about $2,563. By comparison, the French Deux Chevaux, by Citroen, with its familiar tin-can body, is priced this year at $2,963 for the Berline

On close inspection, however, it becomes apparent that all these are really just Italian Fiats put together by Communist labor.

Still, these East-bloc prices do raise son questions about free enterprise, since a plain old Ford Capri is listed here (without accessories) at about $6,131, and one of the smallest and most economical American entries, the Chevette Vauxhall, a two-door fourseater with a station-wagon door in the rear, is priced at $4,749, stripped.

On the other hand, the West wins hands down when it comes to the most outlandishly luxurious cars, with prices to match. How goes a Rolls-Royce Corniche convertible for $84,666 grab you? Students Work On Inside Toward On-Campus Goals

Star Staff Writer

Instead of raucously crying out in rebellious stands, University of Nebraska-Lincoln students and their organizations are increasingly the insiders working methodically deeper in, to achieve more influence in their on-campus living.

The white heat of their goals has diminished, a war no longer igniting emotional protest.

Rather, students are warming to reasoned use of established means to clarify top administrative roles, to get a vote for their student regents, to have and use alcoholic beverages on campus, to expand dormitory visitation hours, and to have a direct say about how their student fees are spent.

UNL student James K. Say sits on the eightmember, elected NU Board of Regnets because he is president of the Associated Students of the University of Nebraska (ASUN), the Lincoln campus student government.

ASUN-Backed Resolution

Say introduced an ASUN backed resolution last Friday that would have regents vest virtually all operational autonomy in each NU campus administration, and minimize the university system central administration role.

Regents unanimously tabled the resolution. Lincoln board member Ed Schwartzkopf said it was unnecessary, since regents bylaws already stipulate campus lines of authority.

Say, of Norfolk, said Monday, "There is sentiment in ASUN to define the roles (of campus operation and coordination) a little better" and especially that of the new UNL chancellor, since student senators will aid the search committee.

Asked the possibility of getting the resolution off the table, Say said the "interesting thing" about Schwartzkopf's stance is that "he was against it even before he read the resolution." Schwartzkopf was the only regent who addressed Say said Schwartzkopf would "like to find some other means of getting the thing (clarifying roles) accomplished." Say noted, "He tends to believe that something brought up by a student regent isn't necessarily that good.

Say's resolution nearly died for lack of a second, until NU Medical Center Student Regent Timothy Chappell finally saved it. (Clinton Bellows is the third student regent, representing the Omaha campus.)

No Vote Rule

'We're trying" to do a good job for student constituents, Say said, but the student regents have no vote.

ASUN has backed a proposal for a state constitutional amendment that would add the vote to all other privileges the student members share with their elder, elected colleagues.

Opponents argue a possible conflict of interest, in that students would have power over top administrators and spending. Proponents submit the student regents' advisory role dilutes their effectiveness. Regents have always opposed alcoholic beverages on campus, despite student efforts to liberalize the policy. Renewed UNL interest in the issue came after Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln okayed student drinking in residence halls last month. Say said ASUN, the Residence Hall Association (RHA) and possibly other UNL student groups are looking into hiring an independent research firm to conduct a study of how many students already keep and use alcoholic beverages. in their living units.

The special issues committee of the RHA and the Council on Student Life are investigating NU alcohol policies and promoting student contact with regents on the issue.

Wilber Regent Robert Prokop has said, "It's just a matter of time" before state opposition to the NU alcohol ban breaks down. He told students he'll not oppose a change, based on his constituents' wishes, especially in the UNL Student Union and the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education. Prokop suggested students back a bill in the 1976 Legislature to change the law prohibiting alcoholic beverages on the NU

Say said ASUN might consider a bill Wednesday to initiate the poll to determine student alcoholic beverage on campus.

24-Hour Visitation Although regents have liberalized dormitory visitation hours in the past few years, a floor of students in Abel Hall is gearing up for a petition to expand the 14-hour daily maximum to 24-hour visitation. The Abel residents are relying on an independent student effort, Say said, rather than organizational support, to persuade regents to broaden the option set by vote of each residence hall floor. Two ASUN senators are proposing to abolish the Fees Allocation Board at UNL, and give the board's power to ASUN. Likening the fees to student "taxes," Say said ASUN, to govern students effectively, needs "to have some discretionary power" over the money.

Currently, the fees board makes recommendations to the chancellor, and regents approve the budget. Regents are eyeing how student fees are channeled on all three campuses.

Freckles On Corn Plants Signature Of New Disease

By DOMINICK COSTELLO Farm Editor

Freckles may look cute on pretty girls and children but on a corn plant they are a sign of disaster in the form of Corynebacterium Nebraskense.

This was the substance of the message brought to the Agricultural Committee of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Monday by Dr. Dave Wysong, plant pathologist at the University of Nebraska.

The Agriculture Committee of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce voted to ask the full chamber to support the city's participation in the proposed Cooper Nuclear Power Plant at Fort Calhoun.

The committee action came after Norris Smith, plant manager for Archer Daniels Midland Co., a soybean processing plant in Lincoln, told the committee that the lack of participation in the Fort Calhoun plant would cost his company at least $70,000 a year in added power costs.

"It should be obvious that such an increase in operating cost would discourage expansion of our plant here," Smith said. The committee action does

Omaha Woman Accuses Credit Bureau Of Mix-Up

Omaha (AP) - Mrs. Joyce Arlene Smith of Omaha has filed suit in federal court contending she had been libeled by an erroneous Credit Bureau report which she said contained a false allegation that she is a convicted felon.

Garage Sales Are Fun, Profitable

By JOANNE FARRIS

Has your town caught the I have been this summer, people seem to be turning garage sales into neighborhood or block parties and having a great time and making money from their castoffs into the bargain.

Working on such sales seems to develop an inter-generational camaraderie, and old and young alike enjoy the give-and-take of bargaining over prices that is another fun aspect of the sales.

Two women I talked to in different towns run garage sales. Both are in their 60s; one does it from time to time and on a small

The other one has gained a reputation so that she has calls to run a sale about every third week during the fair weather of summer and fall. People know that when Belle runs a sale it will be a good one.

What makes a good garage "garage sale" bug? Everywhere sale? First, of course, is good weather. Next, it is important to have a variety of items for sale, and the prices must be reasonable, verging on the low

An unwary newcomer to the garage sale game may pay too much for a few purchases as he or she learns the rules of the game; experienced sale shoppers are not often willing to pay a premium price.

It is important to advertise in your newspaper, under "miscellaneous" or "garage sales" in classified ads. Maybe your sale-planning neighbor will share an ad with you.

Most sellers prefer to put their address in the ad so that the would-be buyers have to come over to see all the merchandise that is for sale. Belie also strings little banners out in front of any house where she conducts a sale. In my browsing I observe that garage sales are another area of endeavor which attract the young and the old, both as sellers and as customers. They share the enjoyment of the socializing aspects of sales. In common they search for bargains. Both age groups seem to like to clear out and discard things they are tired of or do not use anymore.

One of the most delightful features of a good garage sale is to watch a young person pick up and examine an item that he has never seen before.

Soon one of the older persons present will inevitably drift over and open a conversation about the item, describing its function and frequently providing a little reminiscence about how he "used to have one just like it."

Another beautiful aspect of these sales is the growing interest among young people in natural fabrics and older home furnishings. They delight in the texture of linen napkins, the look of tatting, the feel of a handmade woolen afghan.

Older sale goers return the compliment by their obvious enjoyment of the re-emergence of handcraft skills among the young. They cradle a handthrown pot or bowl lovingly over the satiny patina of a handcrafted wooden box or chest; they smile and nod to see the neatly dovetailed joints.

Garage sales are simple pastimes, and they provide wonderful, easy opportunity for persons of every age to get out and have a good time, meet new people, and perhaps pick up a bargain or two as well.

Tulsa Judge Ends Ban On Bare Breasts

Tulsa, Okla. (AP) - A municipal court judge declared unconstitutional a Tulsa ordinance prohibiting the exposure of nude breasts in public.

Judge Laurence A. Yeagley said the ordinance is vague. He added, however, that a state statute against outraging public decency is not affected by his decision.

His ruling came in a hearing in which Ella Lou Ridgeway was accused of dancing with exposed breasts at a club in Tulsa. Yeagley struck down three parts of the four-part ordinance but left intact a provision that persons serving food or drinks are prohibited from exposing nude breasts.

Garage Sales Are Fun, Profitable

By JOANNE FARRIS

Has your town caught the "garage sale" bug? Everywhere sale? First, of course, is good I have been this summer, people seem to be turning garage sales into neighborhood or block par- and the prices must be ties and having a great time and reasonable, verging on the low making money from their castoffs into the bargain.

Working on such sales seems to develop an inter-generational camaraderie, and old and young alike enjoy the give-and-take of bargaining over prices that is another fun aspect of the sales.

Two women I talked to in different towns run garage sales. Both are in their 60s; one does it from time to time and on a small garage sales are another area of endeavor which attract the young and the old, both as sellers and as customers.

They share the enjoyment of the socializing aspects of sales. In common they search for bargains. Both age groups seem to like to clear out and discard things they are tired of or do not use anymore.

One of the most delightful features of a good garage sale is to watch a young person pick up and examine an item that he has never seen before.

Soon one of the older persons present will inevitably drift over and open a conversation about the item, describing its function and frequently providing a little reminiscence about how he "used to have one just like it."

Another beautiful aspect of these sales is the growing interest among young people in natural fabrics and older home furnishings. They delight in the texture of linen napkins, the look of tatting, the feel of a handmade woolen afghan.

Older sale goers return the compliment by their obvious enjoyment of the re-emergence of handcraft skills among the young. They cradle a handthrown pot or bowl lovingly over the satiny patina of a handcrafted wooden box or chest; they smile and nod to see the neatly dovetailed joints.

Garage sales are simple pastimes, and they provide wonderful, easy opportunity for persons of every age to get out and have a good time, meet new people, and perhaps pick up a bargain or two as well.

PETERSEN ... architect-carpenter at work in shop.

WORK AND DISPLAY AREA COMBINED ... 'wooden stuff' from chopping blocks to toy tractors.

Hobby Horse Worth Riding

By PATTY BEUTLER Star Staff Writer

Steve Petersen jokes that his wooden toys are edible. He finishes them with olive oil.

But toys are only part of what Petersen works out of wood. He uses a catchall phrase — "wooden stuff" — to describe his custom design creations which range from bunk beds to book cases.

While some people take up the saw and sandpaper after working hours, Petersen turned his hobby into a profession.

The son of an Omaha contractor, Petersen, 29, grew up doing carpentry work for his dad. "You pick up quite a bit when you're around it all your life," he confided.

To the skills he'd learned on the job, he added a degree in architecture from the University of Nebraska in 1969.

But after five years in the Air Force "flying around free and easy," the thought of sitting behind an architect's desk lost its appeal.

A construction slump and subsequent tight job market for architects helped Petersen make his decision.

Discouraged by job hunting, he helped a cabinetmaker friend catch up on his backlog. Then he'd stop by the shop to do some of his own work and he found he liked the working conditions. When his friend had an accident, became saw-shy and decided to try another line of work, Petersen just "fell into" the woodworking trade. "I probably wouldn't have done it if he hadn't had his accident," Petersen sighed.

He became his own boss and hired hand, buying out his friend's tools and rented shop at 613 N. 27th.

But Petersen didn't want to be just a cabinetmaker. "I wanted to use my design capabilities to turn out more than just cabinets."

And that he has done.

A glance around his shop, a combined display and work area, reveals the young craftsman's range of design potential. A contemporary natural wood bunk bed finished with Danish oil stands in one corner while an 8-foot-tall, 10-foot-wide hutch specially designed to house an antique doll collection nears completion on the other side. In the middle, a reproduction of an old-fashioned cradle takes shape.

Petersen has made spoon racks to display antique collections and entertainment centers to hold stereo components. And, of course, his fair share of cabinets.

Custom-made signs are much in demand, the woodworker indicated. He'd made the big wooden letters for a local night spot's logo as well as every new club opened every few weeks across the country by the same chain.

"We've gone nationwide," Petersen grinned, as he ticked off cities like Houston, Davenport and Syracuse where his wooden letters are now hanging. There's a great deal of satisfaction, Petersen said,

"I want to make toys and wooden things that are

But Petersen's building instinct much preceded his business interests. Long before he ever thought of becoming a woodworker, he designed and built every stick of furniture in his own home. That was as much an economic necessity, he remembers, as an artisitic outlet.

Here's the problem: I used to take birth control pills, but my boyfriend made me stop because he said he heard they could cause blood clots, make my hair fall out and cause lots of other terrible side effects.

Lewis For Special Session To Prevent Sales Tax Hike

A retroactive increase in the 1975 personal income tax rate of 12% might be an answer.

But another answer, Lewis suggested, is a bill separating the sales and income tax rates. Under state law, revenue from the personal income tax and from the state sales tax are to be qualized.

'Senators Ready' "I think there are 17 or 18 senators ready to uncouple those taxes to prevent a sales tax increase," Lewis said. The current state sales tax rate is 21/2%. An additional 1% city sales tax is charged in Omaha,

Lincoln and Bellevue. The State Board of Equalization is scheduled to meet in mid-November to establish 1976 tax rates, and an increase in both the income and sales tax rates appears likely unless a special legislative session takes some action to prevent it.

Cuts Proposed Gov. J. James Exon has suggested reductions in the current 1975-76 fiscal year

"That's okay with me if they come in non-service programs," Lewis said. "If we can cut ad-ministraive costs, fine. "But commitments have been made in terms of service, and programs are underway based on those commitments.' Lewis said the tax cuts "which some have raved about" in the past are now "coming back to haunt us" in terms of a depleted state treasury. "A number of us have tried to point out that if you're going to have programs, you've got to have money," he said. Lewis plans to once again sponsor legislation in the 1976 session requiring the Legislature itself to establish tax rates.

Enough Playing "We've played around this way long enough," he said. And, if nothing is done prior to the January session, he said, he will introduce a bill to uncouple the sales and income tax rates. "I think the sales tax has been pushed to its limit," Lewis said. "The income tax better reflects

Pioneer Hi-Bred Has 15.3% Hike In 1975 Profits

County-City Building.

Des Moines (UPI) - Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., Monday reported a 15.3% increase in after-tax earnings for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31.

R. Wayne Skidmore, chairman and chief executive officer of the agricultural seed stock company, said 1975 after-tax earnings rose to $22 million compared to $19.1 million in fiscal 1974. Earnings per share for 1975 are $2.12 versus $1.86 a year earlier.

Revenues for the major seed products of the company sorghum, soybean and forage seeds increased, said Skidmore. But he added that poor growing conditions for seed corn - the company's major product reduced supplies available for sale and were a major factor in holding the increase in unit seed corn sales to approximately 4%. Prices of seed corn were raised an average of 32% to cover higher production costs associated with the short crop, he said, adding that net seed corn margins declined from the previous year,

Favors By Contractors To Be Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) - A congressional investigation was announced Monday into whether Northrop and other defense contractors entertain and give favors to Pentagon officials.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., said the investigation by his House-Senate Defense Production Committee will be conducted by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

The committee will investigate allegations that defense contractors charge off the favors to their taxpayerfinanced contracts, Patman said, as well as possible violations by defense officials of conflict of interest regulations.

Nebraska Coaches Praise Improving Offensive Line

Looking Ahead To 1976

Nebraska's 1975 football team is still very much in the race for the Big Eight and national championships, but Coach Tom Osborne took a moment Monday to look ahead to 1976 when talking football at the Extra Point Club luncheon.

"Next season we might have the best offensive line we've ever had," the Cornbusker coach said.

His comment came after offensive line coach Cletus Flacher discussed his protegees to Husker boosters at the Elks Club. "One of the real concerns going into this season was that we had so many young offensive linemen," Osborne said. "Against LSU we used five who had never started. They've made excellent progress. We'll have four starters back next year. We lose Rik Bonness, but Tom Davis has shown the ability to start and play very well at center.

Fischer said the line still has a long way to go before the coaches will be satisfied. "But the progress has been there. We've certainly had the effort and we have the ability to get

He paid special tribute to guard Steve Lindquist, who has been making a name for himself on NU specialty teams. "He has the finest speed we've had in an offensive lineman and he will be one of the finest we've had at Nebraska."

Coyle, Lessman Praised

Fischer also handles Nebraska's kickers and he said he's pleased the way place-kicker Mike Coyle and punter Randy Lessman are performing.

Coyle now is Nebraska's leading scorer with 29 points on his kicking. His three field goals against Kansas was one short of the single-game record set by Paul Rogers against Georgia in the 1969 Sun Bowl game.

Coyle has booted five field goals this season, giving him a career total of 12. His extra point mark is 56 of 60 for his career, including a perfect 14-of-14 this year.

Lessman has boosted his punting average to an even 42 yards on 26 kicks and his boots have been hanging in the air long enough that opponents have been able to return just eight of them for a total of nine yards.

Osborne called the Husker kicking game basically good against Kansas, but said an area of concern is that the punt return average has been going down every week.

Need Better Returns

"We need to start getting better punt returns if we hope to win the conference championship," Osborne said. "When there is concern about scoring the punt returns and kicking game come into this statistically.

"Field position plays a tremendously important role. For example, a tream can figure on scoring just 25-30 per cent of the time when a series starts on a team's own 30, but the percentages improve to 50 per cent from midfield."

Osborne noted that in the years when Nebraska was scoring 35 to 42 points a game, Johnny Rodgers was getting good punt returns and the offense didn't have far to go. He mentioned that Joe Washington's punt returns probably have helped Oklahoma win two games this season.

"That extra 20 yards of field position doubles your chances for a touchdown," he said. While scoring was a problem against Kansas, the NU coach said there was significant offensive improvement against the Jayhawks.

"The running game is coming along. I thought we ran pretty well against a good Kansas defense. But there were some mistakes that caused us to settle for field goals.

Osborne said Terry Luck and Vince Ferragamo were quite even in the game, but both could have been sharper. He said he would decide in a day or two who will open against Oklahoma

Ohio State, which took over the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press college football ratings a week ago, held onto the top position Monday by a comfortable margin over deposed leader Oklahoma.

The Buckeyes, who routed Iowa 49-0, received 42 first-place votes and 1,066 of a possible 1,-100 points from a nationwide panel of 55 sports writers and Oklahoma, a 24-17 winner over Texas, which was ranked fifth a week ago, received 12 first-place votes and 982 points. Last week, with 62 board members casting ballots, Ohio State received 47 first-place votes to 14 for Oklahoma and outpointed the Sooners 1,178-1,072.

Southern California and Nebraska retained the 3-4 spots. Southern Cal received the other first-place ballot and 844 points for a 28-10 defeat of Washington State while Nebraska blanked Kansas 16-0 and totaled 649 points.

However, Texas A&M walloped Texas Tech 38-9 and climbed from sixth to fifth replacing Texas, which dropped to eighth. Alabama moved up from seventh to sixth by trouncing Washington 52-0 while Michigan rose from eighth to seventh with a 16-6 triumph over Michigan

Behind eighth-place Texas, Penn State and Missouri rounded out the Top Ten. Penn State held onto ninth place with a 39-0 thrashing of previously unbeaten West Virginia-the Mountaineers had been No. 10 but dropped completely out of the ratings-while Missouri, No. 12 a week ago, made it back into the Top Ten by routing previously undefeated Oklahoma State 41-

Florida moved up from 17th to 12th in the ratings after shutting out Vanderbilt, 35-0. Arizona State and Arizona, both unbeaten, each moved up one spot to 13th and 14th, respectively.

Notre Dame remained 15th and Tennessee regained national ranking as the No. 16 team. Pittsburgh also returned to the ratings as No. 17, with San Diego was 19th with no other team receiving votes this week.

Osborne: OSU Worries NU

By BOB OWENS Star Sports Editor

Coach Tom Osborne advised Nebraska football fans not to worry about Oklahoma State's quarterback situation even though the Cowboys have lost Charlie Weatherbie and Jimmy Derrick with injuries the last couple of weeks

Scott Burk is about as good as the others," Osborne told the Extra Point Club at the weekly luncheon at the Elks Club. "He started the last two games last season, including the (Fiesta) bowl game they won "

Quarterback is the only position where the Cowboys have suffered losses because of injuries. All the players listed at No. 1 in the pre-season depth chart are healthy and will play against the Huskers Saturday in Stillwater, Okla.

(Nebraska still has 1,000 tickets for sale to the game Saturday. They can be purchased at the athletic ticket office in the south end of the stadium).

Oklahoma State won its first four games for the first time since 1945, including impressive triumphs over Arkansas and Texas Tech. Then the Cowboys ran into a buzz-saw Saturday at

"Steve Pisarkiewicz had a hot hand like Dave Humm had last year against Kansas," Osborne said "We were not 56-0 better than Kansas, but we had great field position throughout the good. Overall, they have a pretty game and things just snow- good offensive football team.

Missouri, according to Husker scout Steve McKelvey. "Oklahoma State had the misfortune of running into a very hot Pisarkiewicz and Henry Marshall," he reported.

"The final score, however, isn't descriptive of the kind of game it was," he said. "The score was 24-14 early in the fourth quarter and Oklahoma State was very much in the game. Then Missouri kicked a field goal, both teams began substituting, Missouri returned a punt for a touchdown and the subs scored with five seconds Pısarkiewicz completed 20 of 27 passes for 371 vards and Marshall caught seven passes for 209 yards, wiping out the Big Eight receiving mark of 203 set back in 1950 by Iowa State's Jim Doran. "Pisarkiewicz had the kind of game where he could do nothing wrong," McKelvey said, "There were no difficult catches He just got the ball in there."

Offensively, Oklahoma State ran the wishbone more than McKelvey thought they would. They stayed with it through the first half. Then when they had to throw they went to an I-slot with two wide receivers."

McKelvey said the Cowboys have three great running backs in halfbacks Terry Miller and Kenny Walker and fullback Robert Turner, "Their linemen are big and their receivers are They just never bounced back after losing their quarterback on has 151 in 31 carries. "Defensively, it's a typical Oklahoma State team - awfully big, awfully aggressive and pretty good overall speed," McKelvey said. "They are led by Phillip Dokes, who is 6-5 and 268 and a good football player. They have two more down linemen about the same size in James yards," McKelvey said.

Daigle. "They shut off Missouri's ground game (176 yards) and held Tony Galbreath to 42

"You can expect the kind of game Oklahoma State has always given Nebraska, especially at Stillwater. "Don't take these people lightly. They're

Changes Made

Osborne said sophomore Greg Jorgensen will start at right guard and Monte Anthony will open at I-back against Oklahoma State.

Jorgensen moves in for Rich

Costanzo, who has been switched to an alternate tackle spot. Anthony replaces John O'Leary. All the Huskers worked out for about an hour and a half in sweat clothes Monday.

Trainers reported there were no injuries that will keep anybody out of the first road game against the Cowboys.

Nebraska Coaches Praise Improving Offensive Line

Looking Ahead To 1976

Nebraska's 1975 football team is still very much in the race for the Big Eight and national championships, but Coach Tom Osborne took a moment Monday to look ahead to 1976 when talking football at the Extra Point Club luncheon.

"Next season we might have the best offensive line we've ever had," the Cornhusker coach said.

His comment came after offensive line coach Cletus Fischer discussed his protegees to Husker boosters at the Elks Club.

"One of the real concerns going into this season was that we had so many young offensive linemen," Osborne said. "Against LSU we used five who had never started. They've made excellent progress. We'll have four starters back next year. We lose Rik Bonness, but Tom Davis has shown the ability to start and play very well at center.

Fischer said the line still has a long way to go before the coaches will be satisfied. "But the progress has been there. We've certainly had the effort and we have the ability to get

has the finest speed we've had in an offensive lineman and he will be one of the finest we've had at Nebraska." Coyle, Lessman Praised

Fischer also handles Nebraska's kickers and he said he's pleased the way place-kicker Mike Coyle and punter Randy Lessman are performing.

Coyle now is Nebraska's leading scorer with 29 points on his kicking. His three field goals against Kansas was one short of the single-game record set by Paul Rogers against Georgia in the 1969 Sun Bowl game.

Coyle has booted five field goals this season, giving him a career total of 12. His extra point mark is 56 of 60 for his career, including a perfect 14-of-14 this year.

Lessman has boosted his punting average to an even 42 yards on 26 kicks and his boots have been hanging in the air long enough that opponents have been able to return just eight of them for a total of nine yards.

Osborne called the Husker kicking game basically good against Kansas, but said an area of concern is that the punt return average has been going down every week.

Need Better Returns

"We need to start getting better punt returns if we hope to win the conference championship," Osborne said. "When there is concern about scoring the punt returns and kicking game come into this statistically

"Field position plays a tremendously important role. For example, a tream can figure on scoring just 25-30 per cent of the time when a series starts on a team's own 30, but the percentages improve to 50 per cent from midfield."

Osborne noted that in the years when Nebraska was scoring 35 to 42 points a game, Johnny Rodgers was getting good punt returns and the offense didn't have far to go. He mentioned that Joe Washington's punt returns probably have helped Oklahoma win two games this season.

"That extra 20 yards of field position doubles your chances for a touchdown," he said. While scoring was a problem against Kansas, the NU coach said there was significant offensive improvement against the Jayhawks.

"The running game is coming along. I thought we ran pretty well against a good Kansas defense. But there were some mistakes that caused us to settle for field goals.

Osborne said Terry Luck and Vince Ferragamo were quite even in the game, but both could have been sharper. He said he would decide in a day or two who will open against Oklahoma

Quarterback is the only position where the Cowboys have suffered losses because of injuries. All the players listed at No. 1 in the pre-season depth chart are healthy and will play against the Huskers Saturday in Stillwater, Okla.

Pisarkiewicz completed 20 of 27 passes for 371 yards and Marshall caught seven passes for 209 yards, wiping out the Big Eight receiving mark of 203 set back in 1950 by Iowa State's Jim 'Pisarkiewicz had the kind of game where he could do nothing wrong," McKelvey said. "There were no difficult catches. He just got the ball in there.'

Offensively, Oklahoma State ran the wishbone more than McKelvey thought they would. "They stayed with it through the first half. Then when they had to throw they went to an I-slot with two wide receivers.

Slumps Concern Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) - Johnny Bench hasn't driven in a run in his last five games and his postseason batting average is a paltry .142. That's just one reason why Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson feels like he's sitting on a short-fused powder

"John and Tony Perez are hotand-cold hitters. And when one or the other gets hot, look out," Anderson said as the Reds worked out a day before the third game of the World Series against the Boston Red Sox on Tuesday.

Bench showed signs of a breaking out of his long slump Sunday, collecting two hits, including a leadoff double in the ninth that belped trigger the Reds' 3-2 victory and even the Series at 1-1.

"I don't ever worry about John or Tony. I've seen them come out of it so fast it would make your head spin," Anderson said, hopeful the Reds will find Riverfront Stadium more to their liking.

"We could do no wrong here," said Bench, reflecting on the Reds' amazing 64-17 home

The Reds are batting .188 after two games against the American League champions, and Perez is 0-for-7, but Bench thinks it's too early to be concerned.

They'll be facing Rick Wise, who tossed a no-hitter against Cincinnati when he was pitching here. for Philadelphia in 1971.

Anderson said Cincinnati needed a few games to get in the spirit of things after wrapping up the National League title at the earliest date ever.

"We kept waiting for things to happen. We knew it was just a matter of time, but we didn't think it would take 18 innings,' Bench said.

"We spent the last five to six weeks of the season without any pressure. We didn't have all that publicity swarming around us,"

Washington's Mark Moseley followed Thomas' score by kicking a field goal from 34 yards to sew up the contest. The victory kept the Redskins, 3-1, on the heels of the undefeated Dallas Cowboys in their NFC Eastern Division race but dropped the Cards two games off the pace.

Slumps Concern Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) - Johnny Bench hasn't driven in a run in his last five games and his postseason batting average is a paltry .142. That's just one reason why Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson feels like he's sitting on a short-fused powder

"John and Tony Perez are hotand-cold hitters. And when one or the other gets hot, look out," Anderson said as the Reds worked out a day before the third game of the World Series against the Boston Red Sox on Tuesday.

Bench showed signs of a breaking out of his long slump Sunday, collecting two hits, including a leadoff double in the ninth that helped trigger the Reds' 3-2 victory and even the Series at 1-1.

"I don't ever worry about John or Tony. I've seen them come out of it so fast it would make your head spin," Anderson said, hopeful the Reds will find Riverfront Stadium more to their liking.

"We could do no wrong here," said Bench, reflecting on the Reds' amazing 64-17 home

The Reds are batting .188 after two games against the American League champions, and Perez is 0-for-7, but Bench thinks it's too early to be concerned.

They'll be facing Rick Wise, who tossed a no-hitter against Cincinnati when he was pitching for Philadelphia in 1971.

Anderson said Cincinnati needed a few games to get in the spirit of things after wrapping up the National League title at the earliest date ever.

'We kept waiting for things to happen. We knew it was just a matter of time, but we didn't think it would take 18 innings,' Bench said

The Reds, their running game greatly impeded in the first two games of the series in Fenway Park by muddy conditions on a natural turf infield, welcomed the return to Riverfront Stadium where they felt they could successfully employ the exciting style of play that helped produce 108 regular season victories and three straight triumphs over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL playoffs.

With the teams splitting the first two games of the best of seven series, the Reds will send mound against Red Sox righthander Rick Wise, a former National Leaguer who pitched two of the best games of his when he was with the Philadelphia Phillies.

against Cincinnati in 1971 at Riverfront and two years later had a no-hitter into the ninth inning before Joe Morgan broke it up with a single for the lone Reds' hit.

Reds manager Sparky Anderson, in an effort to take advantage of the faster playing surface, will make a few minor changes in his batting order for the third game. Ken Griffey, whose double beat the Red Sox on Sunday, moves into the No. 2 spot, with Morgan dropping to third and Johnny Bench to fifth.

"It gives us much more speed at the top of the order," said Anderson. "With Pete (Rose) leading off, you cannot double up Griffey on a routine grounder. Then you're going to have a man on first with Morgan up. That sets the stage to force them to go against the book. With Griffey on first, you have to be aware of his stealing and the pitchers had better be throwing fastballs or they're in trouble."

Morgan, who drove in 94 runs for the Reds this year, is predominately a fastball hitter. Anderson also announced that left-hander Fred Norman would pitch the fourth game if the Reds win Tuesday night. However, if the Reds should park," Wise said. "I pitched two clude Oklahoma fullback Horace lose, Anderson said he probably of my best games ever here. familiar to National Leaguers, Pittsburgh twice here during the playoffs. In addition, the Red Sox are not used to playing on artificial surfaces. There is only one park in the AL — Kansas City — that has a complete Astroturf field. The Chicago White Sox have an Astroturf infield, but dirt basepaths and a regular grass outfield. All other parks in the AL have natural turf fields.

'Playing on a field where there is no mud on the basepaths will make things much different for me," said Morgan, the Reds' premier base-stealer, who was unable to get his footing on the rainsoaked ground at Fenway.

"This is a major league ball park; it doesn't have any freak things, like that left field wall in Fenway. I think playing on right-hander Gary Nolan to the Astroturf puts more premium on speed and quickness. When you're playing infield on grass, you still have time to chase the ball if it gets by you. But on career at Riverfront Stadium Astroturf, if you're not quick, it will be by you.

"I think the true test of an out-Wise, a 19-game winner this fielder is the ability to cut balls season, pitched a no-hitter off, and you really have to guard the alleys on Astroturf. (Fred) Lynn and (Dwight) Evans look like pretty quick outfielders, but (Carl) Yastrzemski is a little older and I don't think he's as quick as he used to be. They'll also have to adjust to playing deeper here than they did at Fenway."

The Red Sox, wanting to familiarize themselves with the game conditions as much as possible, did not work out until 8:30 a.m. EDT Monday. One member of the club, catcher Carlton Fisk, openly admitted that Astroturf fields were not on his list of favorite things.

"Everytime we came out of Kansas City this year, we felt as if we'd been in a football game," Fisk said. "Everybody's legs were sore and their backs were sore. The infielders and outfielders know they have to play deeper. I don't like Astroturf. It takes away a lot of plays the fans like. It makes it difficult to cut off balls in the allev; it takes away diving plays, and it takes away the back-handed play down the third baseline.

Wise, however, feels that too big a deal is being made of the playing surface.

"Personally, I like this ball to play very much to their advantage. We have a lot of gifted athletes here and I've got a

ISU's Burgason Out For Year

Ames, Iowa (UPI) - Iowa State basketball player Steve Burgason, who underwent surgery last month on his left hand and wrist, has been declared out of the 1975-76 season, coach Ken Trickey said Monday.

Burgason, a 6-7 junior forward who started all 26 games last year, severed a tendon and artery and partially centered a nerve when he accidentally ran his left hand into a light fixture while practicing karate six weeks

Dr. John Grant told Burgason it would take until January for the flexibility to return to his wrist and five months for the feeling to return to his hand which is now numb.

"It is a disappointment but not a shock to know I'll be missing the season," Burgason said.

Trickey said the former Ames High all-stater will be redshirted and put on a therapy program expected to return full use of the hand. Burgason averaged 8.7 points,

Balk Verdict Shows 'Split'

An AP Sports Analysis By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

CINCINNATI (AP) - The balk controversy that centered around Boston's Luis Tiant in the World Series opener spotlighted another inconsistency in the 100-year-old game we link with Mother and apple pie.

Not only do the American and National leagues have different strike zones and batting order procedures, but now they apparently don't see eye-to-eye on what constitutes a balk.

In 11 years of pitching, Tiant never had a balk called against him. That's nearly 2,000 games. American League umpires, all of them, watched him go through his motion and never found him guilty of trying to deceive a base runner. Then on Saturday—after the

And it raised the question of how Colosi could see something in Tiant's delivery that AL umps had been unable to detect on hundreds of previous occasions.

The matter begged for some sort of official response.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn insisted there was no difference in: the two leagues' interpretations. "A balk is a balk," he" said. "It's an individual judg-

Switzer said he gave the Sooners the day off Sunday after "a complete extension of effort" in the bone-tingling win over the fifth-ranked Steers.

City officials gave O St. property owners the word Monday. If they don't sign petitions by Nov. 1 asking that 0 St. be improved, the city will pull out of the beautification project.

The mayor and City Council took that stand after receiving a recommendation from the Downtown Advisory Committee (DAC) which is concerned about the project.

Public Works Director Bob Obering told the officials that the O St. property owners "have got to make up their minds what they want" before increasing construction costs price the city out of the project entirely.

"O St. is rough and needs repair," Obering said.

"It's embarrassing" to have the city's main thoroughfare in such bad shape, he said. Majority Unsigned

Project." The officials voiced hope that the Nov. 1 deadline would act as an incentive to hold-out property

Although acting favorably on one DAC recommendation, the council rejected another proposal made by the committee. Gravel Cheaper

The lawmakers decided to stick to gravel when the city turns the Haymarket Square block into a temporary parking trict constructed, city officials lot, located from 9th to 10th, Q to R.

DAC again urged that the lot be hard-surfaced, a recommendation the council turned down

Councilwoman Sue Bailey, a DAC member, urged the council to pave the parking lot and put in landscaping since that block is considered a key entryway into Mrs. Bailey argued that the city would be inconsistent in allowing the parking lot to be graveled since private developers are required to meet stricter standards than the council was willing to follow on the city-owned block. Waste Of Money

Councilman Bob Sikvta said that since the lot would be temporary, it would be a waste of money to pave the lot.

Obering indicated he favored

Helen G. Boosalis, Mayor

since revenues generated from a hard-surfaced lot would be greater than revenues generated from a graveled lot.

Obering said the city could charge 75 cents a day on the paved lot. More vehicles could be parked in a lot where stalls were marked. Annual revenues were projected at $27,000. Obering maintained that the city probably could only charge 50 cents a day on a graveled lot, which would bring in about $18,-

000 a year. Number Of Stalls

Obering said 161 parking stalls would be available on the eastern portion of the block after the more expensive alternative, municipal buildings are demolished. The remaining building on the western portion of the block won't be razed until next summer. A total of 260 cars could be parked in the lot.

A majority of the council members said they believed an $81,000 expenditure wasn't justified since the city hopes to attract a developer to build on the site. It will cost $11,000 to gravel the lot.

Mrs. Bailey argued that the socalled temporary lot may be there for more than five years. In the meantime, she indicated the parking lot will be more of an eyesore than an aesthetic gateway to Lincoln.

Mayor Orders New Stationery, Provokes Criticism

Ol' Abe Lincoln had his share of controversies in his heyday, so he's probably just as glad he missed the latest one here in the Captiol City.

It seems that some members of the City Council don't think too much of Abe's picture on the city's new official stationery, ordered recently by Mayor Helen Boosalis.

A picture of President Lincoln is encircled by the letter "O" on the letterhead which has "Lincoln" emblazened in 14-inch letters across the top of each page.

While they're at it (which they were over lunch Monday), Councilman Steve Cook said he doesn't like the overall stationery design.

wide competition had been held to design a new city letterhead and city seal. Cook, an architect, didn't list his objections. It was suggested that several lawmakers didn't like the design because the word "Lincoln," which is printed in gray, doesn't appear bold enough on the stationery.

Mrs. Boosalis defended her choice. She didn't like "that old stuff," she said. The "old" stationery was printed on white bonded paper with the city's seal printed in black. "That was stifling to me," said the mayor.

adding, "I didn't want Lincoln to go on with that for the next 100 years." Besides, she said, the city was running out of that fact to redesign the city's stationery. In an attempt to smooth any ruffled feathers, the mayor pointed out that the city is conserving

"It states so on the bottom of the paper,"

Mrs. Boosalis pointed out.

"I must have missed that," said Cook. The new letterhead was designed by Bailey-Lewis Associates, a public relations consulting

Mrs. Boosalis said she couldn't quite remember what the firm's bill was, but thought it was between $200 and $230.

'It was no big thing," she said. Well, Cook admitted, "you can't do everything to satisfy everybody."

But, he said, he wouldn't object if in the future the city administration held competitions on such things as selecting new colors for police cruisers and fire trucks.

City officials gave O St. property owners the word Monday. If they don't sign petitions by Nov. 1 asking that O St. be improved, the city will pull out of the beautification project.

The mayor and City Council took that stand after receiving a recommendation from the Downtown Advisory Committee (DAC) which is concerned about the project.

Public Works Director Bob Obering told the officials that the O St. property owners "have got to make up their minds what they want" before increasing construction costs price the city out of the project entirely.

The officials voiced hope that the Nov. 1 deadline would act as an incentive to hold-out property

Although acting favorably on one DAC recommendation, the council rejected another proposal made by the committee.

Gravel Cheaper

The lawmakers decided to stick to gravel when the city turns the Haymarket Square block into a temporary parking lot, located from 9th to 10th, Q to R.

DAC again urged that the lot be hard-surfaced, a recommen-

Mrs. Bailey argued that the city would be inconsistent in allowing the parking lot to be graveled since private developers are required to meet stricter standards than the council was willing to follow on the city-owned block.

Councilman Bob Sikyta said that since the lot would be temporary, it would be a waste of money to pave the lot. Obering indicated he favored since revenues generated from a hard-surfaced lot would be greater than revenues generated from a graveled lot.

Obering said the city could charge 75 cents a day on the paved lot. More vehicles could be parked in a lot where stalls were marked. Annual revenues were projected at $27,000. Obering maintained that the city probably could only charge 50 cents a day on a graveled lot, which would bring in about $18,- the more expensive alternative, municipal buildings are demolished. The remaining building on the western portion of the block won't be razed until next summer. A total of 260 cars could be parked in the lot.

A majority of the council members said they believed an $81,000 expenditure wasn't justified since the city hopes to attract a developer to build on the site. It will cost $11,000 to gravel the lot.

Mrs. Bailey argued that the socalled temporary lot may be there for more than five years. In the meantime, she indicated the parking lot will be more of an eyesore than an aesthetic gateway to Lincoln.

Mayor Orders New Stationery, Provokes Criticism

Ol' Abe Lincoln had his share of controversies in his heyday, so he's probably just as glad he missed the latest one here in the Captiol City.

It seems that some members of the City Council don't think too much of Abe's picture on the city's new official stationery, ordered recently by Mayor Helen Boosalis.

A picture of President Lincoln is encircled by the letter "O" on the letterhead which has "Lincoln" emblazened in 11/4-inch letters across the top of each page.

While they're at it (which they were over lunch Monday), Councilman Steve Cook said he doesn't like the overall stationery design.

Cook said he thinks Mrs. Boosalis should have showed the design to "other elected officials" for their suggestions. Already Ordered

Cook admitted the matter was probably moot anyway since the mayor already has ordered reams of the cream colored paper, complete with Abraham Lincoln and all.

Cook said it would have been nice if a citywide competition had been held to design a new city letterhead and city seal.

Cook, an architect, didn't list his objections. was suggested that several lawmakers didn't like the design because the word "Lincoln," which is printed in gray, doesn't appear bold

Mrs. Boosalis defended her choice. Mrs. Boosalis pointed out.

"I must have missed that," said Cook. The new letterhead was designed by Bailey-Lewis Associates, a public relations consulting

Mrs. Boosalis said she couldn't quite remember what the firm's bill was, but thought it was between $200 and $230.

"It was no big thing," she said. Well, Cook admitted, "you can't do everything to satisfy everybody."

But, he said, he wouldn't object if in the future the city administration held competitions on such things as selecting new colors for police cruisers and fire trucks.

Tuesday, October 14, 1975 The Lincoln Star 21

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Security Agency provided the CIA with "at least 1,100 and undoubtably more" summaries of telephone and telegraph communications involving anti-war activists and other dissidents, informed sources said Monday.

The communications - intercepted over "a two or threeyear period" during the first Nixon administration — detailed the foreign travels and organizing efforts of various groups, sources told The Associated Press. The summaries were transmitted via courier from NSA headquaters to Richard Ober, the official in charge of the CIA's Operation CHAOS which monitored the activities of political dissidents, sources said. A separate source said similar

The same source confirmed that Dr. Benjamin Spock, actress Jane Fonda, Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver and Chicago Seven defendants Abbie Hoffman and David Dellinger were targets of NSA intercepts.

Treasury Notes Trade Stock Mart Requires More Effort Advance

New York - Savers are once again talking about Treasury notes. In recent weeks, the government sold a two-year note paying 8.44% a year, followed by a 2-1/2-year issue at 8.1%. Interest rates backed off, but then rose to 8.14% for a 38month issue.

The question for the small saver is whether, at rates just over 8%, Treasuries are worth the effort.

A 2-1/2-year term account at a savings bank or savings and loan can pay as much as 6.75% compounded daily. If you leave all the interest in the account to grow right along with the principal. your total annual yield at maturity will be 7.47% a year.

On a $5,000 investment, this term accounts pays only $30 a year less than an 8.1% Treasury, and only $48 less than a Treasury yielding 8.44% for a comparable period.

For that extra $30 or $48, you have to withdraw money in the form of a certified check and send it to the Federal Reserve in time for a Treasury auction. (There's no fee; your bank will tell you where to write.)

While you're waiting, your money is earning no interest.

When you get the Treasury certificate, it's registered to the Bearer," which means that if you lost it, anyone could cash it. So you have to rush it right down to a safe deposit box.

When it matures, you have to get it out of the box, return it by registered mail, then wait a few more days for the proceeds to arrive. Some people enjoy going through this process; others find it a terrible nuisance.

It's simpler to have a bank or broker make the investment for you. But the commission, though small, diminishes your real return. If you paid $19 to buy $5,-000 worth of 8.1% Treasuries, your true true yield would be

Tax Break

The best thing that can be said for Treasuries, when their yields are this close to term accounts, is that they are exempt from state and local income taxes. In heavily taxed cities, this can make a big difference.

You can't plan ahead for an issue yielding 8.44%, because you don't know in advance what the price will be. The yield is set by the competitive bidding of major dealers and you get whatever they take. The big brokerage houses that deal in bonds may have advance indications, however, if the rate is going to be high. It's worth paying a broker's commission if he can alert you when something special, like the 8.44% note. is available.

Although the small saver may have little to gain by choosing Treasuries over term accounts, the rewards are fatter for people with larger sums of money. An investor with $25,000 can earn around $160 more a year from 8.1% Treasuries than in a comparable term account: from $50,-000, you earn $315 more. In addition, there's that nice exemption

Agency Notes

For a safe investment that pays even more than Treasuries, consider federal government agency notes. These securities are sold by certain big agencies to finance their activities. Because the market is smaller than that for Treasuries, the yield is better.

Recently, agency notes were paying just a hair more than Treasuries at the same maturity. For that small difference, Eugene Sherman, head of Merrill Lynch's government securities department, doesn't think they're worth bothering about. But normally, agency notes yield around a half-point more. That's enough to make it worth paying a broker to buy them for you, rather than buying Treasuries free from the Federal Reserve.

You can buy Treasuries or agencies to mature on almost any date you want. They are readily bought and sold, although you will have to give a little on price if you sell before

In the table below, I've listed the four agencies whose notes Sherman thinks the most suitable for individual investors. The first three agencies make loans to farmers and the fourth is the reserve bank for thrift institutions. The interest on all these notes, as well as on Treasuries, are subject to federal income tax but exempt from state and local taxes.

Drop Told 14-mile of Burlington Northern By Omaha National

Omaha (UPI) - The Omaha National Corp., one of Nebraska's largest financial institutions, has reported lower per share earnings for the third quarter and first nine months of this year compared with the same periods last year.

Morris F. Miller, board chairman, said management now expects the total 1975 net income for Omaha National to be in the range of $1.5 million to $2 million, compared with $4.4 million earned in calendar 1974.

The corporation, Miller said, suffered a net loss per share of $1.14 for the third quarter this year, compared with a net income of .38 cents for the same period in 1974. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1975, Miller said, net income was .54 cents per share compared with a net income of $1.87 last

Miller noted the bank had elected to increase the provision for loan losses by $6 million, primarily due to credits extended for the development of the recreational facilities at Devil's Nest in northeastern Nebraska.

The bank instituted foreclosure action against the Devil's Nest Development Co. last July. Miller said the increased provision for loan losses was changed to current income and is reflected in the third quarter figures.

Miller said the bank's supervisory authorities have approved, but did not require, the increased provision.

He said no change in the corporation's dividend payment policy is presently anticipated as a result of the $6 million charge to the bank's earnings.

Allied Moves To New Zone Headquarters

Omaha (AP) - Allied Chemical Corp. has moved its western zone agricultural sales operation into new headquarters on Omaha's southwest side.

The office is responsible for sales and marketig of fertilizer and feed ingredient products to 1,500 dealers west of the Mississippi River except Oregon and Washington,

A New York based firm, Allied has operated an Omaha sales office for 10 years.

Markets At A Glance New York (AP) is Sharp

NEW YORK (AP) - Speculation that the Ford administration's position against federal help for New York City might be softening touched off a sharp advance in the stock market Mon-

Trading was light, however, as many investors-including money managers at the big banks-took Columbus Day off.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials drifted aimlessly through the morning and early afternoon, but then took off to finish with a 13.86 gain at 837.77, its highest close in five weeks.

The widely recognized indicator had been down more than a point as late as noontime. Advancing issues outnumbered declines 921 to 378 among the 1,720 traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Big Board volume came to 12.02 million shares, down from 14.88 million on Friday.

The chief topic of attention on a day with little economie news was a weekend speech by Vice President Rockefeller in which he advocated that the federal government consider aid for New York City if the city comes out with a promising plan to balance its budget by 1978.

Ron Nessen, President Ford's press secretary, said the President hadn't changed his view against a federal rescue of the ci-

But Wall Streeters still were looking on Rockefeller's remarks as a possible sign that the administration's position might shift in the future. Analysts also noted a carryover of encouragement from last week on the interest rate outlook amid hopes for a relaxation in the Federal Reserve's monetary

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index registered a 1.25 advance to 89.45, and the NYSE's composite index rose .66 to 47.33. Glamor stocks paced the rally, with Polaroid, the Big Board volume leader, rising 2% to 40%. National Semiconductor was up 2 at 46½; Xerox added 3¾ to 63, and Walt Disney Productions picked up 2% to 481/2, all in active trading.

The New York City hopes gave bank stocks a lift. Chase Manhattan gained 1% to 28%; Citicorp 1% to 30%, and J. P. Morga Pittston climbed 2% to 67% rebounding from a 5%-point drop Friday. After Friday's close the company denied reports that it was changing prices and quantities on its coal shipments to Aapan.

Addressograph - Multigraph was up a point at 81/2. The company reported development of a system to combat credit card

On the downside, Union Commerce slipped 1% to 71/2. The Cleveland bank holding company recently posted a quarterly loss and omitted its dividend.

The American Stock Exchange market value index posted a .33 advance to 84.46.

8 Antitrust Claims Filed By Sugar Co.

San Francisco (AP) - Great Western Sugar Co. has filed antitrust claims in U.S. District Court here against eight firms it accuses of price fixing.

The Denver-based company filed the claims in the form of counterclaims against several of the firms that had previously charged Great Western and other sugar refiners with conspiracy to fix sugar prices.

The countersuits include charges of price fixing by the named companies in various product lines and unlawful inducement by them of discriminatory sugar prices from Great Western.

The claims were filed against ITT Continental Baking Co. of Rye, N.Y.; National Tea Co., Rosemont, Ill.; W.R. Grace & Co., Memphis, Tenn.; Superior Beverage Co. Inc., Gary, Ind.; Home Juice Co., Meirose, Ill.; Plantation Baking Co. Inc., Lake Bluff, Ill.; United A.G. Cooperatives Inc., Omaha, Neb., and Sethness Greenleaf Inc.

Chicago. P.J. Adolph, Great Western's general counsel, said additional counterclaims may be filed against other sugar users. He said bringing such claims will probably be deferred until a ruling is received as to whether the pending trebel damage antitrust cases against Great Western and other refiners are to be permitted as class actions. Great Western Sugar Co. is a wholly owned subsidiary of Great Western United Corp.

Ketchup Sales Said To Show Economy Good

Chicago (UPI) - A major ketchup manufacturer says rising sales of his product means the recession is over.

The National Livestock and Meat Board here says the industry reportedly uses the 14ounce bottle of America's favorite condiment as an. economic barometer.

The board said ketchup sales to restaurants have soared, as customers for burgers, hot dogs and other restaurant meats increased.

The meat board said the growth also is attributed to more families reaching higher income brackets (that allow them to eat out more often) and more women in the work force.

New York - Savers are once again talking about Treasury notes. In recent weeks, the government sold a two-year note paying 8.44% a year, followed by a 2-1/2-year issue at 8.1%. Interest rates backed off, but then rose to 8.14% for a 38month issue.

The question for the small saver is whether, at rates just over 8%, Treasuries are worth

A 2-1/2-year term account at a savings bank or savings and loan can pay as much as 6.75% compounded daily. If you leave all the interest in the account to grow right along with the principal. your total annual yield at maturity will be 7.47% a year.

On a $5,000 investment, this term accounts pays only $30 a year less than an 8.1% Treasury, and only $48 less than a Treasury yielding 8.44% for a comparable period.

For that extra $30 or $48, you have to withdraw money in the form of a certified check and send it to the Federal Reserve in time for a Treasury auction. (There's no fee; your bank will tell you where to write.)

money is earning no interest.

When you get the Treasury certificate, it's registered to the 'Bearer," which means that if you lost it, anyone could cash it. So you have to rush it right down to a safe deposit box.

When it matures, you have to get it out of the box, return it by registered mail, then wait a few more days for the proceeds to arrive. Some people enjoy going through this process; others find it a terrible nuisance.

It's simpler to have a bank or broker make the investment for you. But the commission, though small, diminishes your real return. If you paid $19 to buy $5,-000 worth of 8.1% Treasuries, your true true yield would be

make a big difference.

issue yielding 8.44%, because you don't know in advance what the price will be. The yield is set by the competitive bidding of major dealers and you get whatever they take. The big brokerage houses that deal in bonds may have advance indications, however, if the rate is going to be high. It's worth paying a broker's commission if he can alert you when something special, like the 8.44% note, is investor with $25,000 can earn around $160 more a year from 8.1% Treasuries than in a comparable term account; from $50,-000, you earn $315 more. In addition, there's that nice exemption from state and local income

Agency Notes

For a safe investment that pays even more than Treasuries, consider federal government agency notes. These securities are sold by certain big agencies to finance their activities. Because the market is smaller than that for Treasuries, the yield is better.

Recently, agency notes were paying just a hair more than Treasuries at the same maturity. For that small difference, Eugene Sherman, head of Merrill Lynch's government securities department, doesn't think they're worth bothering about. But normally, agency notes yield around a half-point more. That's enough to make it worth paying a broker to buy them for you, rather than buying Treasuries free from the Federal

You can buy Treasuries or agencies to mature on almost any date you want. They are readily bought and sold, although you will have to give a little on price if you sell before

In the table below, I've listed the four agencies whose notes Sherman thinks the most suitable for individual investors. The first three agencies make loans to farmers and the fourth is the reserve bank for thrift institutions. The interest on all these notes, as well as on Treasuries, are subject to federal income tax but exempt from state and local taxes.

Drop Told By Omaha tan gained 1% to 28%; Citicorp 1% to 30%, and J. P. Morgan 1½ National Omaha (UPI) - The Omaha National Corp., one of Nebraska's largest financial institutions, has reported lower per share earnings for the third quarter and first nine months of this year compared with the same periods last year.

Morris F. Miller, board chairman, said management now expects the total 1975 net income for Omaha National to be in the range of $1.5 million to $2 million, compared with $4.4

The corporation, Miller said, suffered a net loss per share of $1.14 for the third quarter this year, compared with a net income of .38 cents for the same period in 1974. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1975, Miller said, net income was .54 cents per share compared

Miller noted the bank had elected to increase the provision for loan losses by $6 million, primarily due to credits extended for the development of the recreational facilities at Devil's Nest in northeastern foreclosure action against the Devil's Nest Development Co. last July. Miller said the increased provision for loan losses was changed to current income and is reflected in the third quarter figures.

Miller said the bank's supervisory authorities have approved, but did not require, the increased provision.

He said no change in the corporation's dividend payment policy is presently anticipated as a result of the $6 million charge to the bank's earnings.

Ketchup Sales Said To Show Economy Good

Chicago (UPI) - A major ketchup manufacturer says rising sales of his product means the recession is over.

The National Livestock and Meat Board here says the industry reportedly uses the 14ounce bottle of America's favorite condiment as an.

economic barometer. The board said ketchup sales to restaurants have soared, as customers for burgers, hot dogs and other restaurant meats increased.

The meat board said the growth also is attributed to more families reaching higher income brackets (that allow them to eat out more often) and more women in the work force.

Iced broilers lost nearly the limit of 2 cents a pound in fairly active trade that was influenced by weakness in red meat futures.

Gold futures lost more than $1 an ounce after some weakness developed in the spot gold quoted on foreign exchanges. Silver futures in Chicago were down some 15 cents an ounce at one time but recovered at the close to end up lower by about 8 cents an ounce.

By Sugar Co. San Francisco (AP) - Great Western Sugar Co. has filed antitrust claims in U.S. District Court here against eight firms it accuses of price fixing.

The Denver-based company filed the claims in the form of counterclaims against several of the firms that had previously charged Great Western and other sugar refiners with conspiracy to fix sugar prices. The countersuits include charges of price fixing by the named companies in various product lines and unlawful inducement by them of discriminatory sugar prices from

Great Western. The claims were filed against ITT Continental Baking Co. of Rye, N.Y.; National Tea Co., Rosemont, Ill.; W.R. Grace & Co., Memphis, Tenn.; Superior Beverage Co. Inc., Gary, Ind.; Home Juice Co., Melrose, Ill.; Plantation Baking Co. Inc., Lake Bluff, Ill.; United A.G. Cooperatives Inc., Omaha, Neb., and Sethness Greenleaf Inc.,

counterclaims may be filed against other sugar users. He said bringing such claims will probably be deferred until a ruling is received as to whether the pending trebel damage antitrust cases against Great Western and other refiners are to be permitted as class actions. Canada Imposes Wage, Price Lid

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) -Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau ordered strict wage and price curbs for a major segment of the Canadian ecomony Monday, with a special administrator authorized to roll back excessive increases.

In a nationwide broadcast address, Trudeau said his "program of restraint is the heaviest imposed upon Canadians since World War II."

Wage guidelines announced by the prime minister generally will permit a 10% annual increase while price hikes would be limited to increased production costs. "We are in for a long hard struggle," Trudeau said after meeting with provincial premiers to inform them of his program.

The controls will directly involve Canada's largest 1,500 com-

Hirohito Departs America

HONOLULU (AP) Emperor Hirohito of Japan headed home Monday, ending a 15-day state visit to the United States, a historic first that one official said helped bring the two countries closer.

The emperor and Empress Nagako boarded their chartered plane at Hickam Air Force Base after a short flight from the Island of Hawaii, where they had had rested all day Sunday.

In a 15-minute ceremony the emperor greeted Hawan Gov. George Ariyoshi and other dignitaries, acknowledged a 21gun salute, then faltered slightly as he neared the top of the stairs

The emperor and empress did not leave their room at the Mauna Kea Beach Hotel after arriving Saturday evening. A hotel spokesman said Hirohito was nursing a slight head cold.

Takeo Fukuda, Japan's deputy prime minister, said the state visit had further cemented relations between Japan and the United States

The two countries now represent one-half of the world's economy, and it is important for them to "work hand in hand for the world," Fukuda said at a a utility pole, sheared off a stopreception Sunday honoring members of the emperor's par-

An anti-inflation review board is to be established to enforce compliance, Trudeau said. It would report violations to a special administrator authorized to order price or wage cutbacks.

If the administrator's order is disobeyed, "stiff penalties, backed by the full force of the law, will be swiftly applied," the prime minister said.

The rules will not apply to annual income increases up to $600 but will bar any boosts exceeding $2,400.

Canada's current rate of inflation is 10.5% and Trudeau told his listeners: "Either we live within our means or we endure permanent and worsening inflation - inflation that is already damaging our employment and income prospects."

Trudeau's long-awaited statement on the economy followed a middle course. His cabinet had discussed plans ranging from another round of voluntary restraints to complete price and wage controls.

Trudeau said the controls will require "a selected number of powerful groups ... to obey strict guidelines on any increase in prices they charge and incomes they earn.`

He added that "if the largest and most powerful groups practice price and income restraint, the effect will be felt throughout the entire nation. When the leaders set a reduced pace, others will follow."

Superdome Has Pigeon Problems

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - through which the birds now can Louisiana's new $163 million come and go. Superdome, the world's largest covered arena, is also the world's largest birdhouse.

Its 13 acres of mushroomcontoured steel and concrete house eight pigeons, darlings of bored football fans and despair of defenseless targets sitting on uncovered field-level seats.

Already the Superdome pigeons are well-known New Orleans characters. Local fans, aching to applaud a winner, whistle and yell support to the soaring birds. Television cameras record their curving flights.

"Get rid of those birds," demanded an irate fan in a letter penned after a couple of preseason football games. "The first time was bad enough. The second time was too much." That indignant patron of the Superdome was one of many visitors voicing similar complaints about pigeon droppings.

Superdome officials shrug and stay under cover until they can

"Once we get that opening closed up," said Lou Kaposta, a dome spokesman, "we'll be able to get rid of them."

The pigeons fly out to feed, said Kaposta, who has had more serious fears about the pigeons. Philippe Petit, a French aerialist, walked across the arching dome on a cable 200 feet above the floor while the pigeons swerved and swooped around the arena. Kaposta feared their flapping might destroy Petit's concentration.

"Fortunately, they stayed well below," he said.

Although Superdome officials thousands.

Still, Kaposta stoutly asserts finish closing a huge main door the main door on the south is on the south rim of the building closed in a couple of weeks.

2 Of 7 Escaped Girls Sought Around Milford

Milford — Five of seven girls who overpowered their cottage counselor at the Youth Development Center at Geneva Monday and escaped in her car have been captured here.

Four were captured in a garage following the wreck of the stolen car, and the fifth was captured when a custodian at the technical college noticed a strange girl on the grounds and called the police.

Richard Wehland, principal at the center, said the seven teenagers threatened the counselor with cleaning equipment and forced her to give them the keys to the auto. After wrecking the vehicle in Milford, the girls fled on feot, according to the State Patrol.

Milford Mayor Ralph Kapke said that the search for the two girls still at large continued in Milford and in a wooded area near town. He said the girls wrecked the auto Monday morning after hitting a hole in the road and losing control of the vehicle, but caused no other property damage. He also said no one in

In a nationwide broadcast address, Trudeau said his program of restraint is the heaviest imposed upon Canadians since World War II."

Wage guidelines announced by the prime minister generally will permit a 10% annual increase while price hikes would be limited to increased production costs. "We are in for a long hard struggle," Trudeau said after meeting with provincial premiers to inform them of his program.

Hirohito Departs America

HONOLULU (AP) Emperor Hirohito of Japan headed home Monday, ending a 15-day state visit to the United States, a historic first that one official said helped bring the two countries closer.

The emperor and Empress Nagako boarded their chartered plane at Hickam Air Force Base after a short flight from the Island of Hawaii, where they had had rested all day Sunday.

In a 15-minute ceremony the emperor greeted Hawaii Gov. George Ariyoshi and other dignitaries, acknowledged a 21gun salute, then faltered slightly as he neared the top of the stairs to the jet.

The emperor and empress did not leave their room at the Mauna Kea Beach Hotel after arriving Saturday evening. A hotel spokesman said Hirohito was nursing a slight head cold.

Takeo Fukuda, Japan's deputy prime minister, said the state visit had further cemented relations between Japan and the United States.

The two countries now represent one-half of the world's economy, and it is important for them to "work hand in hand for the world," Fukuda said at a reception Sunday honoring members of the emperor's par-

> An anti-inflation review board is to be established to enforce compliance, Trudeau said. It would report violations to a special administrator authorized to order price or wage cutbacks.

If the administrator's order is disobeyed, "stiff penalties, backed by the full force of the law, will be swiftly applied," the prime minister said.

The rules will not apply to annual income increases up to $600 but will bar any boosts exceeding $2,400.

Canada's current rate of inflation is 10.5% and Trudeau told his listeners: "Either we live within our means or we endure permanent and worsening inflation — inflation that is already damaging our employment and income prospects."

Trudeau's long-awaited statement on the economy followed a middle course. His cabinet had discussed plans ranging from another round of voluntary restraints to complete price and wage controls.

Trudeau said the controls will require "a selected number of powerful groups ... to obey strict guidelines on any increase in prices they charge and incomes

He added that "if the largest and most powerful groups practice price and income restraint, the effect will be felt throughout the entire nation. When the leaders set a reduced pace. others will follow.

2 Of 7 Escaped Girls Sought Around Milford

Milford — Five of seven girls who overpowered their cottage counselor at the Youth Development Center at Geneva Monday and escaped in her car have been captured here.

Four were captured in a garage following the wreck of the stolen car, and the fifth was captured when a custodian at the technical college noticed a strange girl on the grounds and called the police.

Richard Wehland, principal at the center, said the seven teenagers threatened the counselor with cleaning equipment and forced her to give them the keys to the auto. After wrecking the vehicle in

Milford, the girls fled on foot, according to the State Patrol. Milford Mayor Ralph Kapke said that the search for the two girls still at large continued in Milford and in a wooded area near town. He said the girls wrecked the auto Monday morning after hitting a hole in the road and losing control of the vehicle, but caused no other property damage. He also said no one in Milford has been injured in the incident.

Wehland said the girls are 'very difficult to predict," but are probably not dangerous.

LAP To Direct Shutoff Utilities Assistance Plan

In other action, the LAP board agreed to have the agency evaluated by the Association of Nebraska Community Action Agencies. The evaluation is scheduled to be done in early

The four taken into custody following the wreck were Janice Reno and Linda Watson, both from Douglas County, Christine Beishline of Hall County and Jody Stanly of Lancaster County.

The fifth girl apprehended is Loena Garcia of Douglas Coun-The two still at large were identified by the Patrol as Robin
